

Durham Social News

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Durham, N. C., February 4.—The week's calendar of social events has been filled with many beautiful and delightful functions, leading off Monday afternoon with a lovely bridge and lunch party at which Mrs. J. Harper Erwin entertained most charmingly in honor of Mrs. George W. W. Erwin, who left Tuesday for Palm Beach. The rooms were lovely with graceful plants and great bowls of fragrant freesias adorned the mantels and the tables of players enjoyed the absorbing games of bridge and lunch, at the conclusion of which dainty spreads were placed on the card tables on which a beautiful luncheon was served. Mrs. Erwin was assisted in entertaining her guests by her sister, Miss Mary Hanes.

Mrs. E. B. Lyon was the hostess of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club. The house was very attractive with quantities of pretty plants and fragrant blossoms which harmonized with the soft tones of the walls and the handsome furnishings. The supplementary guests enjoying the charming hospitality of Mrs. Lyon were the club members, were the attractive bride and visitors in the city with their hostesses, which included Mrs. Holman, Mrs. W. W. Erwin, Mrs. Harris King, Mrs. Paul Graham, Mrs. Marion King, Mrs. H. R. Goodall, Mrs. J. E. Hagg, Mrs. J. P. Willy, Mrs. Gilbert White, Miss Bessie Hays, of Norfolk, Va.; Miss Mary Walker, of Richmond; Miss Fay Henry, of East Orange, N. J.; Miss Annie Graham, of Hillsboro, and Miss Carroll Coleman, of Winston-Salem.

There was a most interesting meeting of the "Tourists" with Mrs. J. E. Lyon on Thursday afternoon. The reception hall and library were the guests assembled, was conversed in a veritable flower garden, in which white azaleas, pink and white roses, and copper jacinths, with great clusters of roses in tall vases on tables and cabinets. The study of Turkey grows in interest with each new arrival. W. D. Carmichael gave a very delightful and comprehensive talk on "The Nightingale," which was followed by a paper on "Turkish Literature and Music," by Mrs. J. E. Stage. The program closed with an interesting reading from the "Ottoman Press," by Mrs. C. W. Toms, after which a delicious luncheon was served at three tables.

Mrs. A. G. Carr was hostess of the Episto-Club on Thursday. The whole house was redolent with the fragrance of spring blossoms. In hall and library were beautiful and rare azaleas, with bowls of sweet peas, used in profusion about the rooms. The club is devoted to the study of the romance of French history. The program began with an informal discussion of current topics. Mrs. L. L. Murchison read an interesting paper on "Queen Hortense," after which Mrs. Mary Hanes delighted all with a tale from the "Madame de Staël." At the close of the program a delicious five-course luncheon was served in the dining-room.

Halcyon Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. J. E. Lyon on Thursday afternoon. Southern hospitality is the very interesting subject that is the theme of this club. The paper on "Southern Folklore," prepared by Mrs. Frank Webb, was read by Mrs. W. W. Erwin. The paper, concluded with an original paper by Dr. George W. Erwin, of Asheville, who is an uncle of Mrs. Webb. Other interesting and original papers were read by one of the club members, and the table was beautiful in all its appointments.

Mrs. Bessie and Ruth Poter entertained most delightfully on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Tillery, of Scotland Neck. The musical feature of the evening was quite a variation from the usual order of entertainments.

The happiest events of the week was an old-fashioned Southern party on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. L. Fuller, on Main Street, at which her guests were the friends of her neighbors and old friends. Mrs. J. R. Day, a family dinner, perfect in all its appointments, was beautifully served. The guests being seated at a long table.

Miss Vera Lynn entertained a bevy of her little friends on Tuesday afternoon at her home. The little hostess received her guests in a dainty blue silk frock. The little friends spent the afternoon playing games and enjoyed delicious refreshments before leaving for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. George Watts left in a private car on Tuesday afternoon for Palm Beach. Mrs. Watts goes to enjoy the golfing season.

Mrs. W. A. Erwin entertained most charmingly at bridge Thursday evening at her home. Mrs. Erwin's compliment to Miss Mary Rogers Moran, of Morganton. There were three tables of players and they enjoyed a very pleasant time. At the conclusion of which a hot supper was served.

The Chatterbox Club met with Miss Mary Spiller on Wednesday afternoon. It is composed of the younger members of society, who have a jolly time. The club prize was captured by Miss Ruth Fuller.

Mrs. A. R. Tucker and little Miss Mary Weston have gone to Atlanta to spend several weeks with Dr. Tucker, who is there attending to his duties. The Thursday Evening Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. E. E. Erwin at her home on Mangum Street. The program was given by Mrs. Erwin, who was assisted by Mrs. J. E. Hagg, Mrs. G. Cole, Mrs. C. L. Haywood, Mrs. W. A. Fulford, Mrs. Nannie Check, Misses Bettie Bernard and Miss Hagg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Carr, Jr., after a visit to relatives in Kansas City, Mo., are spending some time in Detroit. They will go to Boston and New York before returning to Durham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. M. Gregory have

Indigestion

Causes Dizziness, Nervousness
Biliousness, Sick Headaches and Sleeplessness

MI-O-NA STOMACH TABLETS
BANISH ALL MISERY

You know that most of the ailments named above come from an out-of-order stomach; of course you do.

When your food reaches the stomach it should digest and furnish nutritious matter to the blood.

If it doesn't digest, and lays heavily on your stomach, it has started to ferment.

When it ferments it sets loose in the stomach poisonous gases which irritate the great pneumogastric nerve, which leads directly to the brain from the stomach.

That irritation causes heartburn, dizziness, night sweats, nervousness and other ailments.

MI-O-NA is guaranteed by Tragle Drug Co. to end all stomach misery or money back. A large box costs only 50 cents and is sold by Tragle Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Free trial treatment and booklet from Booth's MI-O-NA, Buffalo, N. Y., who also fill mail orders on receipt of price.

Culpeper Social News

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Culpeper, Va., February 4.—Hon. John L. Jeffries, of Norfolk, was in Culpeper this week the guest of Edward Perry. Mrs. Laura Smith, who has been detained at home since the holidays on account of illness, returned to her studies at the Culpeper College, Richmond, on Monday. Misses Laura Coleman, Lizzie Keeler, and Mrs. James Coleman were dinner guests of Mrs. Charles W. Hays, of Baltimore, spent Sunday in Culpeper.

Mrs. H. Underwood entertained the Matinee Bridge Club on Friday. Her guests were Messdames Max Samuelson, Clyde Lee, Samuel Booker, Tucker, Chief, Misses Laura Coleman, Lizzie Keeler, and Mrs. James Coleman. Mrs. Charles W. Hays was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Hays, at her home on East Street.

Thomas G. Tate is spending the week with friends at Brandy Station.

George Hiden spent Sunday in Charlottesville.

Miss Jacqueline Ware is spending the week-end at the Rectory.

Roberts Pulliam was the recent guest of the Messrs. Hough at their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Bruce and little daughter left Tuesday for Alden, where they will visit Mrs. Bruce's mother, Mrs. Wilkins.

Lieutenant Louis Wise Jennings, of Culpeper, this week en route to his new post at Fort Belvoir, Cuba, where he will be stationed on the battleship Kansas.

James Judd and his nephew, Master Ben Pulliam, returned Tuesday from a visit to Dr. Harry Judd at his home in Washington.

Miss Lydia Harrison is just back from a visit to her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the Monday Bridge Club this week at her home on Messdames Charles Goldsborough, James Coleman, Underwood, P. P. Huggins, Misses Thompson, Mary and Florence Vass. The guests of honor were Mrs. J. E. Hagg and Mrs. J. E. Hagg.

Miss Robbie Wilkey made a flying visit to Richmond this week.

Miss Fannie Bach and Ernest Smith were the guests of the Baptist Church, Rev. E. W. Winfrey, the pastor, officiating.

James Swan, Jr., and little son spent Sunday in Culpeper.

Miss Daisy Thompson has closed her house on East Street and is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. E. Hagg, at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Mary Somerville, of Oxford, Miss. is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. E. Hagg, at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Miss Liza Lee is spending the week-end at her home in Washington.

Greensboro Social News

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Greensboro, N. C., February 4.—Quite a large number of the members and several invited guests were present at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club, which was entertained Tuesday by Mrs. W. P. Heall at her home on Ashboro Street. There were four tables of six-handed euchre, and the interest in the game ran very high. The highest mark was attained by Mrs. H. Livingston Lee, and a pretty cut-glass bonbon dish was given as a prize. The visitor's prize, a dainty hand-painted picture, was won by Mrs. John A. Gilmer. A dainty course of refreshments followed.

One of the most delightful social events of the season was a card party given by Mrs. F. M. Garner on Wednesday at her home on South Park Drive. The whole house presented a beautiful scene to the guests, palms, ferns and carnations being used as decorations. For the entertainment of the evening, there were five tables of six-handed euchre. A review of the score cards showed that Mrs. S. L. Heall had made the highest score, and a beautiful cut-glass beer stein was presented her. The consolation prize, a pretty Japanese waiter, fell to Mrs. R. Bush. Punch was served during the evening, and following the game, refreshments were served.

Miss Robah May Kerner entertained delightfully Tuesday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Baynes, of Winston-Salem. A score of young people were present and the evening was most enjoyable.

At the home of her parents on South Ash Street, Miss Fannie Barringer was entertained Tuesday to a few friends in honor of Miss Reida Overman, of Reidsville, who is her guest. With palms, ferns and red carnations, among which were many red-shaded candelabra, reflecting their soft shades, a pretty picture was formed, with the young people including in the miscellaneous program of entertainments, which the clever hostess had arranged. After a very pleasant afternoon, the guests were invited into the dining-room, where the color scheme of red and green was most artistically manifested, and a delicious salad course followed by fruit, cake and cream, was served.

Mrs. John N. Wilson was at home Thursday at her beautiful new home on Fisher Park Drive to about fifty of her friends. In honor of her guests, Miss Mamie Collett, of Morganton. The spacious parlors and halls were made one with the occasion, and presented a striking appearance with rich red and gold, palms and ferns embanked in the opportune spaces. There were eight tables of six-handed euchre, and the time passed swiftly to the review of the Valentine score-cards, which proved Mrs. Julia Mehane winner of the prize, a cut-glass bonbon dish. Mrs. Robert Sloan was presented with a dainty embroidered handkerchief as a consolation prize. The prize for the game of honor was a handsome silver cardcase.

The most recently organized social club to be known as the "Heart Club," was organized for the first time Thursday afternoon with Miss Beryl Weaver. The club is composed of the younger set, for the purpose of enjoying one afternoon in each week with all their friends. Miss Weaver was a charming hostess and the evening was delightfully spent playing games. A two-course luncheon was served.

Miss Edith Foushee, Annie Williams, Virginia Gardner, Annie Foushee, Pauline Justice, Nell Glenn, Mary Bell, Jennie Vanstort, Madeline Moore, Merle Weaver and Miss Cornelia Gregory, of Martinsville, Va.

ent was Mrs. Weeks, of St. Albans, Vt., mother of the newly elected president, Mrs. Roberts.

Wednesday being Cabinet day, all society not at the Congressional Club was busy making calls. Not only was it Cabinet day, but Vice-President's day and Speaker's day, when the hostesses of all the officials are formally "at home." There were many interesting callers, as well as receiving parties. Among the former were Lord and Lady Harrington, who bade adieu to the hostesses who had added so much to their pleasure of their annual visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. James McMillan; Sir Robert and Lady Hatfield, of England, who are now classed as householders in Washington, after having spent several weeks early in the season as guests of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Attorney General and Mrs. Wickensham; Mrs. John Hay, who is emerging this season from a long period of mourning for her late husband, the Secretary of State for McKinley and Roosevelt; Mrs. William L. Marshall and Mrs. Nathan Marshall, who have just returned from a fortnight stay in Atlantic City; Mrs. Claude Swanson, whose return to Washington as "Mrs. Senator from Virginia," after a four-year absence spent in the Executive Mansion of the Old Dominion, and Count Ehrensvard, the newly arrived minister from Sweden, than whom society has rarely greeted a taller man, or one of more military bearing.

Miss Helen Taft was out in her new electric machine, and had with her Miss Baldwin, her husband's guest of the week, who will carry back to her home in Dixie the memory of many brilliant social events, the honors of which she has shared with the President's daughter for a fortnight. There may have been affairs that were gay for the young people, than the State dinner to the Supreme Court at the White House Tuesday evening, but the new vice-presidents are Mrs. Edgar D. Crumpecker, whose husband has just been re-elected to Congress for the tenth consecutive time by an Indiana constituency; Mrs. J. B. Henderson, a member of the official circle for more years than most of her confreres wish to admit having been born, whose native State is New York and who adopted Commonwealth is Missouri; Mrs. Ebenezer J. Hill, a Connecticut favorite in the House of Representatives circle; Mrs. Elbert H. Hubbard, of Iowa, who is both good to look at, and certain to do the right thing at the right time; and Mrs. William L. Smith, of Texas, who is so delightfully pro-Southern in voice and manner, but wholly American in intellectual and club activities.

The newly elected treasurer, Mrs. John N. Garner, has the distinction of being the only congressional woman who is her husband's private secretary, the keeper of a home in Washington, and one in the Line Star State, from which Commonwealth her husband has been coming to Congress for four consecutive terms, and has been re-elected for a fifth, and still finds time for daily reading aloud to her son-in-law.

Mrs. Michael E. Driscoll, wife of Representative Driscoll, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the club's unanimous choice for the office of recording secretary. This fact is most flattering to Mrs. Driscoll, as of all the officers only Mrs. Henderson received so large a vote. Mrs. William P. Borland, wife of Representative Borland, of Missouri, elected corresponding secretary, is truly an ornament to the office, since she has been earnestly assuring Mrs. J. B. Henderson will consist of writing two letters a year to Mrs. James Brock Parkins, of Rochester, N. Y., the organizer and first president of the club.

The ladies celebrated the afternoon following the election by listening to their guest, Miss Charlotte E. Gilman, on the "Ethics of Truth," which she described as claiming a broader comprehension of our duty to aid in the development of public morals, public conscience and public virtues. "Life today," she said, "calls no less for courage than it did in our grandmothers' time for the wolves of the Crofts, was the dangers of a fear of criticism, misunderstanding and their attendant trials to combat if we would maintain the high standard expected of the American womanhood."

After the lecture tea was served, while the new officers were inaugurated with congratulations.

Perhaps the happiest woman present was Mrs. Weeks, of St. Albans, Vt., mother of the newly elected president, Mrs. Roberts.

Wednesday being Cabinet day, all society not at the Congressional Club was busy making calls. Not only was it Cabinet day, but Vice-President's day and Speaker's day, when the hostesses of all the officials are formally "at home." There were many interesting callers, as well as receiving parties. Among the former were Lord and Lady Harrington, who bade adieu to the hostesses who had added so much to their pleasure of their annual visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. James McMillan; Sir Robert and Lady Hatfield, of England, who are now classed as householders in Washington, after having spent several weeks early in the season as guests of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Attorney General and Mrs. Wickensham; Mrs. John Hay, who is emerging this season from a long period of mourning for her late husband, the Secretary of State for McKinley and Roosevelt; Mrs. William L. Marshall and Mrs. Nathan Marshall, who have just returned from a fortnight stay in Atlantic City; Mrs. Claude Swanson, whose return to Washington as "Mrs. Senator from Virginia," after a four-year absence spent in the Executive Mansion of the Old Dominion, and Count Ehrensvard, the newly arrived minister from Sweden, than whom society has rarely greeted a taller man, or one of more military bearing.

Miss Helen Taft was out in her new electric machine, and had with her Miss Baldwin, her husband's guest of the week, who will carry back to her home in Dixie the memory of many brilliant social events, the honors of which she has shared with the President's daughter for a fortnight. There may have been affairs that were gay for the young people, than the State dinner to the Supreme Court at the White House Tuesday evening, but the new vice-presidents are Mrs. Edgar D. Crumpecker, whose husband has just been re-elected to Congress for the tenth consecutive time by an Indiana constituency; Mrs. J. B. Henderson, a member of the official circle for more years than most of her confreres wish to admit having been born, whose native State is New York and who adopted Commonwealth is Missouri; Mrs. Ebenezer J. Hill, a Connecticut favorite in the House of Representatives circle; Mrs. Elbert H. Hubbard, of Iowa, who is both good to look at, and certain to do the right thing at the right time; and Mrs. William L. Smith, of Texas, who is so delightfully pro-Southern in voice and manner, but wholly American in intellectual and club activities.

The newly elected treasurer, Mrs. John N. Garner, has the distinction of being the only congressional woman who is her husband's private secretary, the keeper of a home in Washington, and one in the Line Star State, from which Commonwealth her husband has been coming to Congress for four consecutive terms, and has been re-elected for a fifth, and still finds time for daily reading aloud to her son-in-law.

Mrs. Michael E. Driscoll, wife of Representative Driscoll, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the club's unanimous choice for the office of recording secretary. This fact is most flattering to Mrs. Driscoll, as of all the officers only Mrs. Henderson received so large a vote. Mrs. William P. Borland, wife of Representative Borland, of Missouri, elected corresponding secretary, is truly an ornament to the office, since she has been earnestly assuring Mrs. J. B. Henderson will consist of writing two letters a year to Mrs. James Brock Parkins, of Rochester, N. Y., the organizer and first president of the club.

The ladies celebrated the afternoon following the election by listening to their guest, Miss Charlotte E. Gilman, on the "Ethics of Truth," which she described as claiming a broader comprehension of our duty to aid in the development of public morals, public conscience and public virtues. "Life today," she said, "calls no less for courage than it did in our grandmothers' time for the wolves of the Crofts, was the dangers of a fear of criticism, misunderstanding and their attendant trials to combat if we would maintain the high standard expected of the American womanhood."

After the lecture tea was served, while the new officers were inaugurated with congratulations.

Perhaps the happiest woman present

was Mrs. Weeks, of St. Albans, Vt., mother of the newly elected president, Mrs. Roberts.

Wednesday being Cabinet day, all society not at the Congressional Club was busy making calls. Not only was it Cabinet day, but Vice-President's day and Speaker's day, when the hostesses of all the officials are formally "at home." There were many interesting callers, as well as receiving parties. Among the former were Lord and Lady Harrington, who bade adieu to the hostesses who had added so much to their pleasure of their annual visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. James McMillan; Sir Robert and Lady Hatfield, of England, who are now classed as householders in Washington, after having spent several weeks early in the season as guests of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Attorney General and Mrs. Wickensham; Mrs. John Hay, who is emerging this season from a long period of mourning for her late husband, the Secretary of State for McKinley and Roosevelt; Mrs. William L. Marshall and Mrs. Nathan Marshall, who have just returned from a fortnight stay in Atlantic City; Mrs. Claude Swanson, whose return to Washington as "Mrs. Senator from Virginia," after a four-year absence spent in the Executive Mansion of the Old Dominion, and Count Ehrensvard, the newly arrived minister from Sweden, than whom society has rarely greeted a taller man, or one of more military bearing.

Miss Helen Taft was out in her new electric machine, and had with her Miss Baldwin, her husband's guest of the week, who will carry back to her home in Dixie the memory of many brilliant social events, the honors of which she has shared with the President's daughter for a fortnight. There may have been affairs that were gay for the young people, than the State dinner to the Supreme Court at the White House Tuesday evening, but the new vice-presidents are Mrs. Edgar D. Crumpecker, whose husband has just been re-elected to Congress for the tenth consecutive time by an Indiana constituency; Mrs. J. B. Henderson, a member of the official circle for more years than most of her confreres wish to admit having been born, whose native State is New York and who adopted Commonwealth is Missouri; Mrs. Ebenezer J. Hill, a Connecticut favorite in the House of Representatives circle; Mrs. Elbert H. Hubbard, of Iowa, who is both good to look at, and certain to do the right thing at the right time; and Mrs. William L. Smith, of Texas, who is so delightfully pro-Southern in voice and manner, but wholly American in intellectual and club activities.

The newly elected treasurer, Mrs. John N. Garner, has the distinction of being the only congressional woman who is her husband's private secretary, the keeper of a home in Washington, and one in the Line Star State, from which Commonwealth her husband has been coming to Congress for four consecutive terms, and has been re-elected for a fifth, and still finds time for daily reading aloud to her son-in-law.

Mrs. Michael E. Driscoll, wife of Representative Driscoll, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the club's unanimous choice for the office of recording secretary. This fact is most flattering to Mrs. Driscoll, as of all the officers only Mrs. Henderson received so large a vote. Mrs. William P. Borland, wife of Representative Borland, of Missouri, elected corresponding secretary, is truly an ornament to the office, since she has been earnestly assuring Mrs. J. B. Henderson will consist of writing two letters a year to Mrs. James Brock Parkins, of Rochester, N. Y., the organizer and first president of the club.

The ladies celebrated the afternoon following the election by listening to their guest, Miss Charlotte E. Gilman, on the "Ethics of Truth," which she described as claiming a broader comprehension of our duty to aid in the development of public morals, public conscience and public virtues. "Life today," she said, "calls no less for courage than it did in our grandmothers' time for the wolves of the Crofts, was the dangers of a fear of criticism, misunderstanding and their attendant trials to combat if we would maintain the high standard expected of the American womanhood."

After the lecture tea was served, while the new officers were inaugurated with congratulations.

Perhaps the happiest woman present

was Mrs. Weeks, of St. Albans, Vt., mother of the newly elected president, Mrs. Roberts.

Wednesday being Cabinet day, all society not at the Congressional Club was busy making calls. Not only was it Cabinet day, but Vice-President's day and Speaker's day, when the hostesses of all the officials are formally "at home." There were many interesting callers, as well as receiving parties. Among the former were Lord and Lady Harrington, who bade adieu to the hostesses who had added so much to their pleasure of their annual visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. James McMillan; Sir Robert and Lady Hatfield, of England, who are now classed as householders in Washington, after having spent several weeks early in the season as guests of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Attorney General and Mrs. Wickensham; Mrs. John Hay, who is emerging this season from a long period of mourning for her late husband, the Secretary of State for McKinley and Roosevelt; Mrs. William L. Marshall and Mrs. Nathan Marshall, who have just returned from a fortnight stay in Atlantic City; Mrs. Claude Swanson, whose return to Washington as "Mrs. Senator from Virginia," after a four-year absence spent in the Executive Mansion of the Old Dominion, and Count Ehrensvard, the newly arrived minister from Sweden, than whom society has rarely greeted a taller man, or one of more military bearing.

Miss Helen Taft was out in her new electric machine, and had with her Miss Baldwin, her husband's guest of the week, who will carry back to her home in Dixie the memory of many brilliant social events, the honors of which she has shared with the President's daughter for a fortnight. There may have been affairs that were gay for the young people, than the State dinner to the Supreme Court at the White House Tuesday evening, but the new vice-presidents are Mrs. Edgar D. Crumpecker, whose husband has just been re-elected to Congress for the tenth consecutive time by an Indiana constituency; Mrs. J. B. Henderson, a member of the official circle for more years than most of her confreres wish to admit having been born, whose native State is New York and who adopted Commonwealth is Missouri; Mrs. Ebenezer J. Hill, a Connecticut favorite in the House of Representatives circle; Mrs. Elbert H. Hubbard, of Iowa, who is both good to look at, and certain to do the right thing at the right time; and Mrs. William L. Smith, of Texas, who is so delightfully pro-Southern in voice and manner, but wholly American in intellectual and club activities.

The newly elected treasurer, Mrs. John N. Garner, has the distinction of being the only congressional woman who is her husband's private secretary, the keeper of a home in Washington, and one in the Line Star State, from which Commonwealth her husband has been coming to Congress for four consecutive terms, and has been re-elected for a fifth, and still finds time for daily reading aloud to her son-in-law.

Mrs. Michael E. Driscoll, wife of Representative Driscoll, of Syracuse, N. Y., was the club's unanimous choice for the office of recording secretary. This fact is most flattering to Mrs. Driscoll, as of all the officers only Mrs. Henderson received so large a vote. Mrs. William P. Borland, wife of Representative Borland, of Missouri, elected corresponding secretary, is truly an ornament to the office, since she has been earnestly assuring Mrs. J. B. Henderson will consist of writing two letters a year to Mrs. James Brock Parkins, of Rochester, N. Y., the organizer and first president of the club.

The ladies celebrated the afternoon following the election by listening to their guest, Miss Charlotte E. Gilman, on the "Ethics of Truth," which she described as claiming a broader comprehension of our duty to aid in the development of public morals, public conscience and public virtues. "Life today," she said, "calls no less for courage than it did in our grandmothers' time for the wolves of the Crofts, was the dangers of a fear of criticism, misunderstanding and their attendant trials to combat if we would maintain the high standard expected of the American womanhood."

After the lecture tea was served, while the new officers were inaugurated with congratulations.

Perhaps the happiest woman present

was Mrs. Weeks, of St. Albans, Vt., mother of the newly elected president, Mrs. Roberts.

Wednesday being Cabinet day, all society not at the Congressional Club was busy making calls. Not only was it Cabinet day, but Vice-President's day and Speaker's day, when the hostesses of all the officials are formally "at home." There were many interesting callers, as well as receiving parties. Among the former were Lord and Lady Harrington, who bade adieu to the hostesses who had added so much to their pleasure of their annual visit to the latter's mother, Mrs. James McMillan; Sir Robert and Lady Hatfield, of England, who are now classed as householders in Washington, after having spent several weeks early in the season as guests of the latter's brother and sister-in-law, Attorney General and Mrs. Wickensham; Mrs. John Hay, who is emerging this season from a long period of mourning for her late husband, the Secretary of State for McKinley and Roosevelt; Mrs. William L. Marshall and Mrs. Nathan Marshall, who have just returned from a fortnight stay in Atlantic City; Mrs. Claude Swanson, whose return to Washington as "Mrs. Senator from Virginia," after a four-year absence spent in the Executive Mansion of the Old Dominion, and Count Ehren